At Macworld in January 2013 we talked about mobile photography crossing the threshold of viability and acceptability. We gave you a broad look at possibilities and personalities in the mobile movement. Since then more of the mass market have begun to understand that the mobile photography medium has truly unleashed a vast new genre of art, products and services. During this years Mobile Masters at Macworld/iWorld 2014 we plan to offer you proof of this maturing market. Through attending this all day event you will learn the best ways to approaching the mobile medium for capturing, processing and sharing your images. The three key speakers and their special guests are some of the most passionate and experienced artists in this emerging genre of photography. This crash course will help you tune your mobile skills to get your photos noticed. Dan Marcolina, Jack Hollingsworth and Kevin Kuster are all very accomplished professionals in photography, design, production and art direction. It is from this advanced background that they have researched and refined the best shooting, apping, and sharing mobile work-flows. They will not just teach you HOW they do things by WHY they do things. This way you learn from the inside out in this intensive all day workshop.

Jack Hollingsworth (photojack) is easily one of our industry's most well known names in World Lifestyle, Travel, Portrait and Stock Photography for over 25 years but for the last 3 the iPhone has been his preferred camera. He has pushed the border of distinction between "real" and mobile cameras and loves to talk about what he has discovered in his travels.

Hollingsworth's presentation, "life is a photo opp", will zip through 100 tips, techniques and tricks for shooting mobile photography as you meander and move through the routines, rhythms and rituals of life. He will enlighten you to new ways to think about capturing images in mobile vs dslr cameras. From how to best handle the mobile device too revealing unexpected iOS 7 camera app secrets.

He will also discuss and demo 30 mobile photography accessories that have helped him elevate his own game. But more than that Jack will give you his proven techniques on seeing, composing and capturing memorable images. DAY PART 2 - PROCESS

Dan Marcolina is the creator of Mobile Masters and has over 25 years of experience in design and digital image manipulation. He is considered an Adobe Photoshop master and the work from his design firm Marcolina Design Inc and his fine art photography work has been published worldwide.

In 2010 his new passion for the mobile medium inspired him to write "iPhone Obsessed" the iconic first book on creating images with multiple apps. And since then his iTunes iPhoneography ebooks and workshops have been called the best resource for learning the art of mobile photography. Dan applies his imaginative technical design skills to intermixing apps and ideas for a very diverse range of looks. He will open your eyes to many new and unknown apps and dive into showing you the best hidden creative features in some of the most used apps. Most importantly he will put it all into the context of his creative process. While dissecting the app stacking work-flow of his favorite images he will share with you his inner dialogue of why he took the image and why he makes the app choices he makes. He will show you how to wrap your head around the mobile work-flow and retain image quality through the process. He will help you organize your apps and think about taking images with the post app process in mind. You will discover that the refinement of these personal choices around sculpting the final image are key to one's unique vision. Dan is famous for his rapid-fire delivery but will slow it down and dive deeper in this brand-new presentation.

Kevin Kuster will present and moderate this third leg of the day. He is currently the Chief Photo Editor for the largest photographic Instagram community in the world, #jj or @joshjohnson. Josh Johnson and Kevin have created one of the most beautiful and consistent destinations on Instagram. The #jj community has more than 500,000 members and their #jj hashtag is one of the most popular and used hashtags in the world. They have also been very successful in extending the reach of their imagery to physical exhibitions and help promote companies like FIAT, Alt Hotels and Chrysler.
